Naomi Dolgoy

Naomi is a graduate student working under Dr. Margie McNichol at the University of Alberta, completing her Doctoral studies. A recent research project was working on qualitative data collection for the Lymphedema Night Compression Study (LYNC) related to participant experiences and teaching self-bandaging to help with clinical practice. Naomi has presented her research at the National Lymphedema Conference in Montreal in Oct 2017 and at the International Lymphedema Conference in Rotterdam June 2018.

Mona Al Onazi

Mona is a physiotherapist and graduate student at the University of Alberta under Dr. Margie McNichol with a particular focus on exercise, breast cancer, and lymphedema, specifically resistance exercises for lymphedema. Mona is at the leading edge in developing exercise programs for upper extremity lymphedema.

Dr. Jay Granzow

Dr. Granzow is an internationally respected lymphedema surgeon. He serves as Professor of Surgery in the Division of Plastic Surgery at the UCLA David Geffen School of Medicine, and Assistant Chief of Plastic Surgery at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center. He is Board Certified both in Plastic Surgery and Head and Neck Surgery. A pioneer in lymphedema surgery, Dr. Granzow successfully integrated lymphedema therapy with three types of lymphedema surgery including vascularized lymph node transfer (VLNT), lymphaticovenous anastomosis (LVA) and suction assisted protein lipectomy (SAPL). He has published major scientific articles on lymphedema surgery in leading medical journals. Dr. Granzow is a frequent lecturer at U.S. and international conferences, educating patients, therapists and physicians on the latest advances in lymphedema surgery. Dr. Granzow provides lymphedema treatment for patients in his private medical practice located in the Los Angeles area.

Breanne Walker

Breanne is a registered Kinesiologist and Yoga Teacher with a passion for evidence-based, wisdom-centred healthcare. In her role as an Exercise Therapist at 'Inspire Health Supportive Cancer Care,' she coaches patients in safely incorporating physical activity, yoga and meditation into their recovery program. Breanna believes in prioritizing self-care and inspiring others to do the same.
